

DESCRIPTION

The replacement charger for your KSIX Olympo smartwatch is composed of a magnetic charging base, the most convenient and easy to use system to have your smartwatch with battery at all times. The cable is 60 centimeters long and incorporates a USB-A connector. Get this spare charger to have it always available in the office or elsewhere in the house and do not have to carry the original charger from one place to another and wear it unnecessarily.

The most convenient charging system

The magnetic base system that incorporates this charging cable is the easiest and safest way to charge your smartwatch KSIX Olympo. The easiest because the magnetic base is perfectly coupled with the pins of the smartwatch, and the safest because, by not incorporating a conventional charging connector, the watch ensures complete waterproofing so you can immerse it with total peace of mind.

Flexible and resistant cable

The cable is made of PVC, which gives it a flexibility and resistance that grant it exceptional durability. It has a length of 60 centimeters and incorporates a USB-A connector so you can connect it to any wall charger, external battery or computer port and charge your Olympo with total comfort.
